Penny Catches Ciddie

People don't hear it very often nowadays. But last night city police were called by an excited Burnside resident that a run-away horse was passing his home. Ciddie Ben Hassen is no Arab, said owner John Cannon, 3016 Harriet, in spite of his name. Burnside road residents say he has a taste for flowers. He didn't do much damage before Peggy Ormond, 2 Obed, captured the frisky fellow and turned him over to Const. Eric Rossiter. — (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Milk Price Jump Seen Under New Formula

Increase in retail milk prices was foreseen yesterday when the provincial milk board unveiled its price-fixing formula to be applied at the producer level Sept. 1.

Victoria milk distributors plan to meet next week to discuss the new formula.

In Nanaimo, the price of a quart of milk climbed two cents to 26 cents yesterday. Duncan milk took a similar price jump a few days ago and a quart of milk in Port Alberni now costs 28 cents.

ACT CITED

The price formula, and a system of milk classification which will guarantee consumers a higher butterfat content, are included in a section of the new Milk Act passed by the legislature last February. Other parts of the act have been effective since July 2.

NO FLAT RATE

Previous regulations set the producer price at $5.90 per 100 pounds of milk containing 3.4 per cent butterfat, sold on Vancouver Island, and $5.03 on the mainland.

There will be no flat rate as of Sept. 1.

All milk of four per cent butterfat content will be graded in three classifications.

Each class will have a different price formula. The formula for class 1 will be worked out on the basis of seven fluctuating factors.

The Ottawa index of wholesale prices; index of local alfalfa hay prices; index of dairy feed prices; index of farm labor figures; and the index of commodities and services used by farmers.

FLUCTUATION

Each month a "combined index figure" will be computed, thus making possible a different producer price each month.

Acid Case Breaks

NEW YORK (AP)—Two ex-convicts were seized by the FBI Friday in the wanton acid attack that blinded Labor columnist Victor Riesel. The government said the attack sought to prevent the crusading newspaperman from telling a federal grand jury about labor racketeering.

The FBI said the man who actually hurled sulphuric acid into Riesel's eyes April 5 was slain last month.

The slain man was Abraham Telvi, a 22-year-old Brooklyn hoodlum. Authorities said some of the acid splashed on Telvi's face. The tell-tale scars led to his underworld assassination because he was too "hot."

Telvi was said to have collected $1,000 for the acid attack. But the big mystery was who put up the money.

The two under arrest are Joseph P. Carlini, 45, and Gennaro Shiekle Miranti, 37. Both were described as thugs in New York's garment district, where acid is often used as a weapon of intimidation or revenge.

The government said Carlini set up the acid attack on Riesel, and that Miranti fingered the columnist to Telvi outside Lindy's restaurant on Broadway.

Telvi's brother, Leo, 26, was held in $100,000 bail as a material witness. The government said he knew too much about the case for his own safety.

West Germany Outlaws Reds

KARLSRUHE, Germany (UP)—West Germany outlawed its small but noisy communist party yesterday and promptly shut down red offices and newspapers throughout the country.

Squads of special police carried out raids after the constitutional court, equivalent to the U.S. supreme court, ruled the party was a threat to the West German constitution.

The court ordered the West German communist party and its front organizations dissolved and its property confiscated by the federal government.

Democrats Unite for Battle

Stevenson, Kefauver, Truman Bury Hatchet, Open Attack

Leadership, Truth Promised Nation

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson accepted the Democratic presidential nomination Friday night with a pledge to give "leadership and truth" to a "new America."

And from the crumbling political ramparts on which they fought on opposite sides over the party nomination, Stevenson and Harry S. Truman reached out forging hands of friendship.

Stevenson and the former president addressed the final session of a convention which a few hours before had made Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee the vice-presidential nominee in a spectacular, wide-open floor fight that supplied the most dramatic moments of the five-day party convocation.

Kefauver raced out in front on the first ballot. He clinched it against the challenge of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts on the second, when his own balky Tennessee delegation finally stepped into the breach at a critical moment.

For Friday night the Democrats saved an oratorical finale—a triple-header featuring Truman, Kefauver and Stevenson in that order.

Right at the start Truman ate words—uttered in the heat of his fight to put across Governor Averell Harriman of New York for the presidential nomination. Less than a week ago Truman was saying Stevenson wasn't a fighter and couldn't win the November election.

Friday night he started off his prepared address:

"I am here to give my full support to Adlai Stevenson. "Governor Stevenson is a real fighter, and I ought to know. Any man who can take this convention the way he did should be able to take the Republicans next fall. He's given some of us here a pretty good licking, and he's going to give Eisenhower a better one."

Stevenson, on his part, offered a salute to "the distinguished American who has been more than equal to the great test of disagreement and has now reaffirmed our common cause so graciously, former President Truman."

While the two were waving the truce flags, each in his own way declared war once more on the GOP.

"What this country needs is leadership and truth," Stevenson said. "And that is what we mean to give it."

The Republicans are divided, he said, and have ignored President Eisenhower as a leader.

At another point, Stevenson said:

"What we need is a rebirth of leadership—leadership which will give us a glimpse of the nobility and vision without which peoples and nations perish."

While he was at it, he went after the Republican record in foreign affairs.

Probably, he said, the nation's prestige abroad "never has been lower."

Truman spoke in a similar vein. He said it was "cause for shame" that "the stature and prestige of our nation has been steadily dwindling abroad."

DULES ATTACKED

"What the Communists, with all their violence failed to do is being accomplished by the clumsy diplomacy of John Foster Dulles and the platitudes of President Eisenhower."

Truman urged all Democrats everywhere, regardless of whom they supported before, to get behind Stevenson and Kefauver.

Kefauver, in his acceptance speech, said that he, too, found out the hard way that Stevenson is "an effective and unflinching fighter." The senator promised to get in and pitch with all his vigor in the campaign ahead.

While he was at it, Kefauver swung a couple of times on Vice-President Nixon.

Kefauver said his pride in the vice-presidential nomination was increased by reason of having won it in "free and open convention."

"I hope," he said, "that it will set a precedent for the future. It will be very interesting to see whether the process is followed in San Francisco next week."

Reds Sell Bible

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet government, which for more than 25 years prohibited publication of the Bible, is now in the business of exporting Bibles from Russia.

The Soviet Bibles are on sale at a New York book store at $10 a copy.

The 50,000 copies of the Bible published in the Soviet Union since the revolution compare with a total of 1,063,013,000 copies of the works of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin from Soviet printing presses from 1917 to 1954, according to official Soviet figures.

Strait Hero To Drive Through City Today

Quick arrangements were made yesterday for the city to honor Cliff Lumsdon, first person to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca from north to south.

A cavalcade of cars will take the swimmer and his official party from their headquarters at the Old Charming Inn to City Hall at 10 a.m. today.

There he and members of the party will be received by Acting Mayor W. F. Pinfield and city council, and will sign the visitors' book.

TOKEN OF PLEDGE

The acting mayor will present Mr. Lumsdon with a letter extending the city's congratulations, as a token of the plaque that will follow as soon as it can be prepared.

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, as president of the Chamber of Commerce, will also make a presentation.

Reeves of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have been invited to the reception.

Arrangements were also being made yesterday for Mr. Lumsdon to be present at the Victoria Musicians' Union band concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in Beacon Hill park, so that the people of Victoria might meet him.

Half a dozen persons telephoned The Daily Colonist yesterday to suggest that the city should honor the swimmer with an award of cash.

DO SOMETHING PLEA

"Something should be done in recognition of his wonderful performance," said one of them, Ona Heard of 1089 Richmond.

But City Solicitor T. F. O'Grady expressed grave doubts about the legality of council making a cash award.

Home in Path Of Bush Fire

Saanich fire department was fighting a bush fire of unknown origin in a rugged ravine half a mile south of Prospect lake last night.

An official said the blaze covered an area one-quarter mile in circumference and could burn towards a house in the vicinity.

"I'm 99 per cent sure I can swim it," he said.

Arrangements for the reception were made by entertainment chairman Ald. Austin Curtis and Acting Mayor Pinfield in a strenuous telephonic marathon.

SCANT SLEEP

The acting mayor, with City Manager C. C. Wyatt, was on the dock to congratulate Mr.

Lumsdon in the name of the city when the swimmer arrived back in Victoria. But he got up at 10 a.m. to join Ald. Curtis, who had already gone into action on the telephone.

"This was all so unexpected," said Ald. Curtis, "and it was so near the weekend, we found most people had made commitments."

He and the acting mayor tried in vain to arrange a civic dinner for last night.

Here's a lad who had much more confidence in Cliff Lumsdon than the big swimmer had in himself. Del Kirkpatrick, 16, of 740 Transit, a Daily Colonist circulation sub-manager, bet Cliff $10 that he could beat Juan de Fuca strait. The Toronto marathoner took the bet and Del now holds his IOU.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman)

Wants Egypt in New Talks

Russia Backs Nasser to Hilt, Cites Danger of World War

LONDON (UP)—Russia yesterday denounced the West's proposal for an international control board to operate the Suez canal and warned that any attempt to move against Egypt by force could result in a world war.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov called instead for a new and expanded Suez conference to include Egypt, which would consider only the question of free navigation in the canal.

Shepilov thus threw Moscow's full support behind Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in an hour-long address before the third session of the Suez talks in Lancaster House.

American and French sources thought Shepilov's speech "left the door open," but the British felt it was a flat turnaround of anything this conference may produce.

(In Moscow, First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovitch said yesterday that freedom of navigation in the Suez canal must be maintained, but declined to say how it should be done.)

STEP AHEAD

Shepilov spoke shortly after French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau carried forward a step further in the plan advanced Thursday by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for an international board, affiliated with the United Nations, and with Egypt as a member.

Pineau offered to recognize Egypt's ownership of the strategic waterway in return for its acceptance of an international authority to operate it.

the present meeting, has refused to consider international control, but is willing to discuss guarantees of freedom of navigation.

Meanwhile, the Egyptian embassy in London said the Suez canal has been slashed in half because 11 canal pilots have not returned to duty from their vacations.

Thomas Plans Non-Stop Round Trip

Bert Thomas, the first man to swim Juan de Fuca, wants a match race across the strait with Cliff Lumsdon.

(See Lumsdon Answer on Page 9)

The massive Tacoma logger is also priming himself for the toughest swim of all: a double trip across the strait from Port Angeles to Victoria and return. He thinks he can do it.

"I know the strait was going to be swum from north to south one day, and I don't think there could be a better man to do it than Cliff Lumsdon," he said on the telephone from Tacoma.

And then he asked whether his time of 11 hours, 17 minutes from Port Angeles to Victoria July 8-9, 1955, was faster than Cliff Lumsdon's time.

Told that Lumsdon's 11 hours 34 minutes was 18 minutes slower than his time, he said: "I guess Lumsdon could have put on a sprint and beaten that time if he'd thought of it."

"I wasn't ahead of him by very much, but 18 minutes is still ahead. And if I can be ahead of a six-times world champion, I'm happy."

"It looks to me like we should have a swim. He can pick his course and I'll pick mine. We could flip a coin to see which side we'd go from."

"I was leary of Cliff Lumsdon. He's a terrific swimmer. But I'm sure I can beat him in a match race."

"Here's something else. You'll say I'm crazy, but I think there's a very good possibility of swimming from Port Angeles to Esquimalt, then turning around and swimming back again. And if things go right, I'm going to try it."

"I've been training eight hours a day, and I'm in better shape than I ever was."

Thomas said he had been swimmer was made a freeman undergoing tests at the U.S. Navy's swimming pool at the University of Washington which successful swim last year.

proved he could stay in 43-degree water for 24 hours without ill-effects.

The same tests showed him to have muscle equal to that of four or five average men and lung-power equal to that of two men.

Tests on Cliff Lumsdon might prove the same thing for him," Thomas said.

The 30-year-old, 275-pound Thomas said he had been swimmer was made a freeman undergoing tests at the U.S. Navy's swimming pool at the University of Washington which successful swim last year.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOME days the dice are loaded against you. The boy had a bad earache this particular morning. So I drove him to the doctor, pausing only to drop into the office, where I found a bit of work that needed doing within the next half-hour.

But the boy was raising an unearthly noise. His ear hurt. The appointment was in two minutes. So I dropped the work, drove through the doctor's conscience allowed, and headed toward a parking place in front of the doctor's office.

To get there I had to slide through a narrow gap between a car and a truck. I've taken the car a dozen times through places like that. This time I misjudged the distance about half an inch and raked the car along the truck's bumper.

My wife jumped out to survey the damage. Just as she was reporting that I had ploughed only a small furrow in my paint, she gave a small scream and clutched at her skirt.

The zipper on it had broken. She just managed to catch the skirt on the way down, and dived back in the car.

Then I noticed that the parking place was really a bus zone. The truck behind was parked illegally. I grumbled along to the nearest parking meter. On the way I remarked acidly that a woman with any gumption would have some safety pins ready for emergencies like this, and my wife told me not to be a fool. Who would expect such a thing to happen? Anyway, she couldn't hold up a tight skirt with safety pins. They would make lumps and bulges, and look terrible.

I asked her whether her appearance was more important than the health of her child. She replied that if I was so smart, why didn't I take the child up to the doctor's office and leave her in the car? I said I had some work to do, and she said... but that's enough. We talked back and forth, and before long we were in an argument.

There was an armistice when she made repairs with safety pins after all, and took the patient and his little brother into the doctor's office.

When I picked them up later, tempers had cooled. There was nothing wrong with the boy's ear that could not be fixed by about $10 worth of miracle drugs. In our relief, we forgot that there was supposed to be an argument.

The morning's score had been as follows: One earache, one item of unexpected rush work, which had to be postponed; a minor accident, a broken zipper and a quarrel. And yet some people say there is no such thing as bad luck. They're crazy. I could almost feel that small black cloud over my head.

Everybody seems to hit days like that, when "nothing goes right." What happens? Maybe your stars are a shade off course, or your guardian imp fires a mild shot of brimstone at you, to show what will happen if you don't behave.

Garden Notes

Modern Balsam Improved Plant

By M. V. CHEENUT, FRHS

The other day, in a friend's garden, I ran across some well-grown specimens of an old favorite of mine—the Balsam—and I was delighted to see how much the plant breeders have improved upon this charming old-fashioned plant.

When I grew the plant years ago, its habit of growth was rather stiff, standing up like a little tree, and with the flowers borne in the leaf axils close to the main stem. With all its charm, the flowers were useless for cutting as they were almost stemless, and the only way we could use them for home decoration was to pick off the blossoms and float them in a bowl of water.

BUSHY PLANT

The modern Balsam makes a bushy plant, with the flowers looking like small Camellias, borne on the ends of the branching shoots. The colors are pink, white, scarlet and rose.

These annuals are as easy to grow as radishes. The seeds are fairly large and easy to handle, and all you need to do is bury them in the ground in April. They germinate in about 15 days, and as long as they get hot sun, rich soil and plenty of water they grow like crazy, making compact, bushy plants 1½ feet tall completely covered with their attractive double flowers. I plan on having great masses of them in my garden next year.

BUD STAGE

To have everlasting at their best for your winter bouquets, the flowers should be cut while still in the half-open bud stage, and when the plants are perfectly dry, and free from dew. Tie them in small bunches and hang them up, shoot if necessary.

head downward, in a dry, airy spot out of the sun. A corner of your kitchen will serve if there isn't too much steam from cooking. Personally, I hang mine up in the garage until the papery petals are perfectly dry.

This technique applies to most of the common everlasting such as Helichrysum, Acrolineum and Statice, but the Physalis—Chinese lantern to you—needs a little different treatment.

KEEP IN WATER

The stems should be cut just as the "lanterns" turn scarlet, and should be kept in a vase of water until the leaves assume a yellow tone, then removed from the water and hung up to dry as for the other kinds.

It is a good idea to give your Michaelmas daisies a careful inspection now that their flowering season is drawing near. You probably thinned the shoots in the spring, but a last look-over will most likely disclose some weak and overcrowded growths which are best cut off at ground level.

PROPER STAKING

The taller kinds can do now with some adequate but unobtrusive staking. There are several ways of doing this, the worst of which is to put in a section of broomstick and lash the whole clump to it with one loop of string, like a flour sack tied around the middle. You see this horror far too often these days.

Try to maintain the natural habit of the plant. If the shoots in the half-open bud stage, and when the plants are perfectly dry, and free from dew. Tie them in small bunches and hang them up, shoot if necessary.

Dog Spurred Cliff to Goal

Laughren Plans New Try Today

A full-fledged attempt on Juan de Fuca strait will be made today, and a practice swim that "could go all the way" will take place tomorrow.

Meanwhile, list of entries for the Jaycee mass swim scheduled for Aug. 26 has grown to seven, and five of the swimmers are in this area.

Ben Laughren was to leave Port Angeles at 4:30 a.m. today on his 10th crossing attempt and first from south to north. Navigator will be Stan Page and trainer Ove Witt.

Mrs. Billie Benedict, with navigator Alf Webb, was to start from Gonzales point between 1:30 and 2 a.m. Mrs. Amy Hiland will leave Port Angeles at 4:30 a.m. the same day. Both will be trying for the third time.

Bill Muir will go out with Laughren today to act as a pacer. He then plans a practice swim starting between 2 and 3 p.m. Sunday from Fitzgibbon light, and if conditions are right, he said, "it could go all the way."

Rudy Schlak, 28-year-old ex-paratrooper who last year became the first man to cross Lake Winnipeg, reached Victoria yesterday for the mass swim, joining Laughren, Muir, Anna Burian and Janice White.

STRICT RULES

While on pilgrimage to Mecca, a devout Moslem must avoid quarrels and women—and say nothing frivolous.

It wasn't Cliff Lumsdon's collie, Kitty, of course. But just for a moment the big swimmer thought she was. "I saw her there on the beach... and I thought to myself, that's Kitty. They've flown her out from Toronto to meet me. She was prancing around, sort of excited, just getting her feet wet. I could see her and the fire on the beach and I felt a sort of urge to reach that dog. I put all I had into the last few hundred yards... But it wasn't Kitty." Emotion at the swim's end made the strait's victor weep. But maybe the dog he thought was Kitty had something to do with it, too, he admits. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Puzzle Drawn In Air

Mystery vapor trails, possibly of jet aircraft or even guided rockets, scarred the sky high above Albert Head at about 8 p.m. yesterday, rousing the curiosity of hundreds of spectators.

Navy officials here, RCAF at Comox and the department of transport's air traffic control centre in Vancouver, could not identify the craft which caused the trails.

One spectator guessed the trails were caused by two guided rockets, dodging about at slow speeds and coming together in attack and counter-attack.

Another said they appeared to be the ordinary condensation trails left by jets when they travel at high altitudes.

RCAF officials at Comox checked with three American Air Force Sabres which had landed there last night, but were told their route from a Portland, Ore., base had been over Vancouver.

Conqueror Welcomed Back

Among the first to welcome Cliff Lumsdon back to Victoria early Friday morning was Sergeant Stan Holmes of city police. "He didn't show much weariness, in spite of the strain he had been under for nearly 12 hours," the sergeant marvelled. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman)

Lumsdon Gives Brush-Off To Bert Thomas Challenge

Cold water was thrown by the Cliff Lumsdon-Marilyn Bell swim camp here yesterday on a challenge thrown out by the new Juan de Fuca conqueror by Bert Thomas, his only successful predecessor.

When told of the challenge, Lumsdon said: "I have to head back to Lake Ontario for the CNE swim now." He added: "Bert Thomas knew I was here before now."

Lumsdon said the challenge was similar to one he issued earlier to Thomas. "Who's challenging who?" he asked.

Thomas said Lumsdon had landed at Green Point, five miles west of Port Angeles, and "the terms of the swim, as I understand them, are that the landing on the U.S. side must be made within three miles of either side of Ediz Hook."

"THAT'S IT"

In reply, Lumsdon's backers said simply: "The thing is this. He swam the strait. That's it."

Earlier, Lumsdon disclosed that he was unable to use his right leg for the last 10 miles of the swim because of a cramp.

Salt water slopping into his food made him retch once, and "a couple of times, I was scared by stinging jellyfish."

As the swim was ending, Lumsdon was so cold that he cried. His face had swollen a little during the swim, but no more than is normal in long swims; and Cliff recovered quickly.

The swim camp met behind closed doors yesterday afternoon to discuss the next step. No announcement was made, but it was reported that Marilyn might make her second attempt "at a very early date."

Rebels Call Truce

Terror Ends On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The ceasefire called by Greek Cypriot rebels in this British crown colony passed its first day Friday without incident.

Nearly 24 hours after the EOKA underground announced a "ceasefire" whose head British authorities have put a price of £10,000.

from British headquarters was all quiet across the island.

Field Marshal Sir John Harding, governor of Cyprus, began a period of hopeful waiting. His spokesman intimated that a genuine halt in anti-British violence might open the way to new negotiations on the Cyprus issue.

Harding was expected to allow two weeks or more to test EOKA's promise to lay down its arms.

The underground organization, whose initials stand for National Organization of Cypriot Fighters, has waged a violent campaign for 16½ months to break British rule and unite Cyprus with Greece.

CIRCULATE LEAFLETS

The ceasefire was announced in EOKA leaflets circulated in major towns across the island Thursday night. They were signed "Digenis," the leader, reputed to be fugitive George Grivas. He is a 58-year-old former Greek army colonel on British intelligence officers, first cautious, later leaped to the conviction that the leaflets were the real thing. In Athens, Greek officials said "doubts still exist" as to their authenticity.

Despite the promising calm of the first day, Harding's 20,000 British soldiers on Cyprus kept up anti-extremist vigilance. They maintained regular guard posts and patrols from one end of the island to the other.

Hairy Cougars In Ice Ballet

Three members of Victoria Cougars hockey team displayed long, hairy legs under short skirts when they presented a ballet at the Mid-summer Ice Revue of the Mary Rose Thacker skating school.

The Cougars' ballet was a parody of a serious ballet presented by 20 students of the school, which draws pupils from as far away as Port Arthur, Ont. and California.

Group numbers, such as a sleigh ride and fencing dance, and solo performances, rounded off the show, the first summer ice revue in Victoria's history.

The revue will be presented again at 8.30 p.m. today in Curling Rink.

A Fine Achievement

STRAIT swimming has almost become a rote but Victorians were thrilled anew early yesterday morning when Mr. Cliff Lumsdon became the first person to conquer Juan de Fuca in a southerly direction. His was a splendid performance, made especially notable by being a first attempt. By touching down on the American shore also he returned the compliment of Tacoma's Mr. Bert Thomas, who landed on this side of the strait a year ago in an equally epic swim. Since Mr. Lumsdon is from Toronto the international honors are now even, and mixed with enthusiasm over the Lumsdon feat was satisfaction that a Canadian should be the first to conquer in the opposite direction.

Like Mr. Thomas a year ago, Mr. Lumsdon was blessed by favorable weather conditions — seemingly an absolute pre-requisite for a successful crossing — but it was his dogged determination and powerful swimming ability that brought him victory. He proved himself a champion marathoner and fully deserves the plaudits that are coming his way. These include a civic reception similar to that accorded Mr. Thomas, at which the official voice of the city will congratulate him on a splendid achievement. One supposes he will be accorded equal honors in every respect.

Mr. Lumsdon has now proved that the strait can be swum in both directions; inevitably therefore if Juan de Fuca continues to hold the swimming spotlight other aspirants will also succeed in time. Meanwhile competition is keen among feminine contenders to win the distinction of being the first woman to swim the strait either way. Here again the international angle is prominent and pleasant. California's Mrs. Amy Hiland is poised and ready for another attempt and so is B.C.'s Mrs. Billie Benedict, and undoubtedly Mr. Lumsdon's success will spur Toronto's famous Miss Marilyn Bell, like him a protégé of Mr. Gus Ryder, to a second determined try. May the winds keep calm for all three of them and good luck attend them.

Litterbugs Are a Pest

A CARTOON in an eastern newspaper the other day depicted an all-too-familiar scene. It showed a family party driving away from a rustic picnic spot leaving behind them a disgusting litter of paper, cartons, tin cans, bottles and other rubbish. To drive home his point the cartoonist added two pigs, looking over a fence at the retreating litterbugs. One of the pigs remarks to the other: "And they say things about us!"

The drawing was an apt commentary on a deplorable habit that is prevalent in and around all Canadian cities, and conspicuously so here. It seems to be impossible for people to get together on any public occasion or to visit picnic spots and beaches without throwing trash and rubbish all around them. Those who do this would be ashamed for anyone to see such a disgusting mess around their own homes, yet they seem unconscious of any offence in scattering litter in public places.

There are continuous efforts to educate people away from this abominable habit, but so far to little avail.

If good citizenship begins in the home it certainly should include training in this aspect of personal behavior. Children who are not taught to pick up after themselves at home cannot be expected to be tidy elsewhere, and are less likely to acquire habits of cleanliness as they grow older. Unfortunately on public occasions and at holiday resorts many parents themselves set a shocking example, making no effort to dispose of food wrappings and the like even though ample receptacles for that purpose may be provided. The belief seems to prevail that it is someone else's job to clean up after them.

The person who causes litter is a pest and a public nuisance who can and perhaps should be dealt with by law; but the place for education and for the first application of discipline is the home.

Roots To Be Proud Of

THE gesture of the provincial government in ordering 2,000 copies of Mr. Bruce McKelvie's fine book, "Pageant of British Columbia," for school libraries throughout the province will be as rewarding to future generations as today it will be appreciated by the many friends and admirers of the author. Without aiming at epic goals, he has produced a distinguished account of upwards of a hundred incidents in the province's early history. From the account shines forth the courage of the pioneer settlers, their sturdy belief in the land and their unquestioning faith, under Providence, in its destiny. Many of the representations will become source material of value and instruction in the future.

Mr. McKelvie is known for his connection with the British Columbia Legislative Press Gallery, of which he has many times in rotation been president, and as capital city correspondent for The Province for a long consecutive period. Author, lecturer and newspaperman, Mr. McKelvie is in the front rank of British Columbia's historians, a subject which has been a lifetime study with him. That his instructive and clearly-written book of B.C. origins will now be made available over a wider field and incorporated in its place into school programs is a well-merited honor.

Long as it may appear in a single lifetime, British Columbia's history is relatively short and imperfectly known. Every available piece of authentic information from the past if not gathered and recorded will soon be lost beyond recall. It required courage years ago to push through the wilderness for distances which today span whole provinces, to run through rapids in birchbark canoes and to brave the wild seas of the Pacific in the foundation of settlements which today have grown into fine cities. Our pioneer roots must be preserved.

Goldstream Park

ANNOUNCEMENT by Mayor Percy Scourah that the provincial government has made a definite offer to take over Goldstream park, for development as a provincial woodland recreation area, will be welcome news to people in the Greater Victoria area. Five years ago the same result could have been achieved had it not been for the city's own hesitancy, under a former regime. Now that has been overcome the prospect is that the Province will incorporate the 784-acre area into an integrated park unit and bring it up to provincial standards, and they are high. At very slight outlay, roads and trails can be improved, picnic and camping grounds established and Goldstream made one of the smaller, but not less beautiful, showplaces under the care of the provincial forest service. In relation to the result the costs should prove insignificant.

Interpreting the News

Liberals Scan Barometer

By JAMES E. NELSON
British United Press Correspondent

OTTAWA (BUP)—The date of the next federal election may be decided soon in a summer resort town near Rivière-du-Loup, Quebec.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent has begun a three-week vacation at his summer residence at St. Patrick, near there. Political observers said the speed and ease with which the 74-year-old Liberal leader returns to his accustomed vigor from the exhausting session of Parliament would bear watching.

Several of Mr. St. Laurent's cabinet ministers are known to feel that an election this fall might be advisable. It could come at a time when opposition groups would be least expecting it, and might catch them unprepared.

Mr. St. Laurent, who was more than usually faithful in his attendance in the House during the past session, found the 12 and 14-hour days strenuous. He left Ottawa after a routine end-of-session cabinet meeting.

Courses open to the government, and decisions which are primarily the Prime Minister's to take, are:

Call a fall election, catching the opposition off guard, and start Parliament on a brand new regime next year.

Call a new session of Parliament this fall, to be carried over and completed next spring, with a general election following it during the summer.

Call a new session of Parliament late next January and lay before it a vote-catching legislative program which would not necessarily have to be passed before Parliament was dissolved and an election held.

Mr. St. Laurent has given the Liberal party a pledge that, his health permitting, he will lead the party through the next general election.

The date of the election is his choosing. If an election is held this fall, some observers say, the time would not only be auspicious for the Liberal Party, but it would enable the Prime Minister to keep his leadership pledge and retire from active politics earlier than might otherwise be the case.

Among those reported to be in favor of an autumn election was Mr. St. Laurent's 70-year-old chief lieutenant, Trade Minister C. D. Howe, who has promised to stay at the Prime Minister's side as long as Mr. St. Laurent remains in office.

Cabinet circles reported that Mr. Howe's comment last week on a speech at the Couchiching conference in which he said there were too many old men in Canadian political life, was more serious than laughter-provoking.

Public Parks

By FRANK KELLEY

AS LONG as public parks will provide such amenities as the Creator evidently intended for the benefit of mankind when he fashioned this land we know as Vancouver's Isle, the trustees of the people's heritage will do well to set aside, as population demands and warrants, areas suitable for recreation purposes—picnics under the greenwood trees, soaking up solace dreamily beside a sun-speckled stretch of lake water or experiencing the exhilaration of reaching a vantage point on a hill ridge from which breath-taking vistas are beheld. Such areas are still not hard to find any day not very far from the bounds of Greater Victoria.

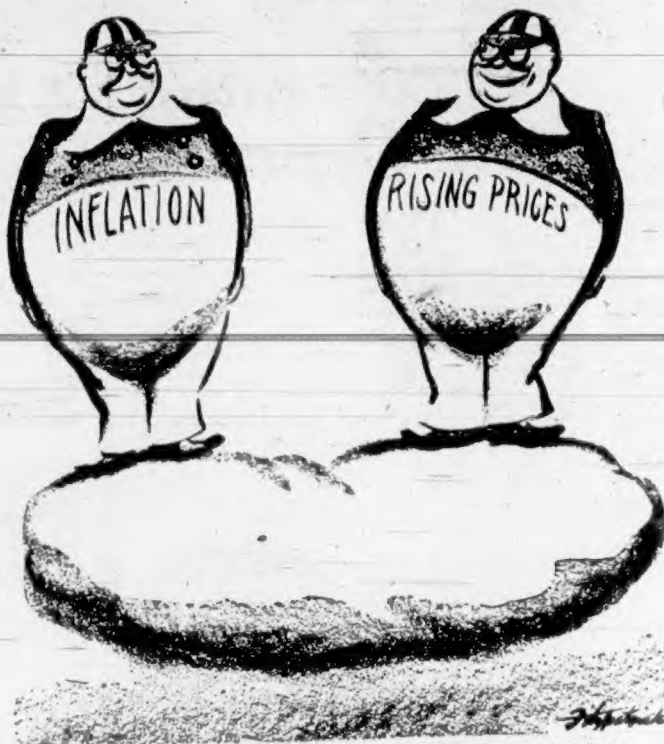

In this connection we have always understood that the natural beauty resources of our Island particularly should always be considered very much a part of the people's heritage. Possessing such belief some of us have more or less taken it for granted that elected representatives of the people should not hesitate to set aside from time to time such available areas of natural, appeal consistent with neighborhood growth. In other words, recreation should be considered as vital a part of man's leisure time as application is to his busy hours.

As time passes and probably before it is altogether too late, Vancouver Island may have a fair share of unsplashed bits of beauty reserved for their rightful owners—the people. An instance of this trend was announced recently by Lands and Forests Minister Williston. It conveyed information to the effect that some 358 acres of high recreational potential surrounding Matheson Lake in the East Sooke area had been set aside by government and would be developed in the near future as a place of public resort.

Matheson Lake is located about 1½ miles from the head of Pedder Bay and about the same distance from Sooke Harbor basin. It drains into Roche Cove. As one remembers walking across country from Pedder Bay to the lake when the Gillespies had a place near the lake on the Sooke Harbor side (it had a reputation for trout fishing 60 years ago) it should make a worthwhile acquisition to the growing number of parks in the near vicinity of an area which appears to have every chance of a swelling population that will appreciate such recreational facilities in the not-too-distant future.

At the same time the development of such a park as Mr. Williston envisages should mean that a long-neglected district close to Victoria will come into its own. A park in the making around Matheson Lake should mean the opening up of much that is new to the motorist along the east shore of Sooke Harbor, south-easterly towards Beecher Bay and generally westerly from the park site towards the Strait of Juan de Fuca—all included in a varied potential of new road delights.

Matheson Lake can be reached at present by CNR train, which skirts its north side and follows the stream grade down to Sooke Harbor basin. There is a road called Gillespie road which had its terminus in the old days near Roche Cove. This road now extends to East Sooke P.O. This Gillespie road can also be reached by following the old East Sooke road from Beecher Bay area. In all events a park about Matheson Lake will add another attractive setting for such amenities as are favored by southern Vancouver Islanders who crave outdoor diversions such as only natural parks can supply.

Reports from Ottawa

THERE shall be One Parliament for Canada," the BNA Act declared in 1867, "consisting of the Queen, an Upper House styled the Senate, and the House of Commons."

But in reality, Parliament today is the House of Commons. The part the Senate plays in legislating and otherwise influencing national affairs is insignificant. That, unfortunately, is not just an opinion, it is a fact proven, if it needs proof, by the Senate's moribundity this session.

While the Commons sat 150 full days up to this week, the Senate sat 76 days, often very briefly. Where 43 public bills were introduced in the Commons, comprising all the important government legislation, only eight routine ones started their passage through Parliament in the Senate.

George Drew and other Conservatives in the Commons criticized the senators vehemently for having passed the gas pipeline bill after only two days' debate, compared with the month's wrangling over the bill in the Commons.

I think this criticism was unfair and unjustified, and for these reasons:

1. The Senators had heard so much of the Commons debate from their gallery in the Commons chamber, and had read so much of it in Hansard, that their minds were pretty well made up before they got the bill. They didn't need to debate it at length.

2. The senators were limited by their rules to speaking about the legislation. They couldn't, as the Commons did, argue for days over speaker's rulings, closure and other procedural points.

3. The senators, as appointed legislators, were loath to oppose the expressed will of the large majority of elected members of the Commons who voted for the bill. Thus Senators Croll, Roebuck and Cameron, who said they preferred public ownership of the pipeline, voted for the bill.

I think this was a logical attitude to take. But I also think the senators carry it too far. For example, this session the senators changed not so much as a comma in legislation which came to them from the Commons. And the Commons aren't that good.

True, several senators offered amendments, but their colleagues under the leadership of Solicitor-General Macdonald turned them down. The size of the Senate's inferiority complex may be judged from Macdonald's comment in opposing an amendment proposed by Liberal Senator Chubby Power—an amendment which the Senate banking committee had already approved.

"It would be most unwise," Macdonald said, "for the Senate to substitute its judgment in this matter at this time."

So much for the "sober second thought" the Senate is supposed to give to bills from the Commons.

The only piece of truly Senate legislation worth mentioning was Sen. Aseltine's bill to transfer the hearing of the Quebec divorce cases from the Senate to the Exchequer Court. Timid because of Quebec opposition, the Senators voted it down.

The Senate finance committee came up with half a dozen ideas on ways the government might save a little money. The divorce committee approved 356 divorces. Senators participated with Commons on the joint committee on capital punishment.

And two senators died. That reduces the Conservative opposition to six, and the Liberals to 80. There are two independents and an independent Liberal, and 13 vacancies which currently are saving the taxpayers $130,000 a year.

Magic of Memory

By GREGORY CLARK

THE late Dr. R. R. Bensley, one of the greatest medical research men of the past wonderful generation in medicine, a Canadian who worked most of his career in the University of Chicago, had a mind as crystal clear in his eighties as it was in his forties. He was a histologist, an authority on tissues, and his work made possible the discoveries of Banting and many another in the past half century. He will be remembered in medical history three hundred years hence, when the rest of us are something less than dust.

It was his memory that was his most extraordinary feature. Whenever I found a wild flower or fern or some curious item I could not identify from the books, I would visit Dr. Bensley in his cottage, which was near mine, and he would look at it a long moment with a quizzical, expectant smile on his face. Then he would name the thing. Name it by its common name, by its scientific name, and add a few interesting particulars about its nature, life history and so forth. Yet botany, or any of the branches of zoology, were miles away from his chosen field of work.

When I asked him how he could remember such details across half a century or more, for surely he had not been walking in the woods with his artificial leg in that time, he gave me his speculation on the nature of memory.

"I think of memory," he said, "as being like a bee's comb, a structure full of little cells into which memory is stored as the bees store honey. The mind, I imagine, lights up these cells when it begins the process of remembering. The mind seeks out the one cell it wants, and ignites. But a slight radiance glows on the adjoining cells, so that we remember more than just the one thing sought. Remembering things long ago, we can ignite cell after cell of adjoining memories until a whole area of the mind is illuminated."

me his speculation on the nature of memory.

"Now when you brought me this flower, I could not recall its name. But I thought I could recall where I had first seen it, a great many years ago. I thought it was up on the north shore of Georgian Bay, near McGregor Bay. So I proceeded to recollect my visits there; and little by little, I felt the cells of my memory igniting, and I remembered many things, the fishing, the rocks reflected in the morning calm, my companions, my son, the boat we had. Then, quite suddenly, I lit up the cell that remembered seeing that flower. And in an instant, I had it's name. It is Castilleja, or painted Cup. Sometimes called Indian Paint Brush."

Dr. Bensley was a great man, whimsical, wise, who could talk, and did talk with Einstein and all the rest of the giants, and who could talk, and did talk, with the humblest of men.

How Much For Schools?

By ORMOND MARRION

GREATER Victoria ratepayers can look forward with interest to the results of school board deliberations in coming weeks.

The board has indicated clearly that the ratepayers will be asked to vote next December on a new school construction by-law. The question that soon must be answered is, for what new schools and how much money?

The question is a troubling one. There already have been signs that the Greater Victoria school trustees are disturbed by the difficulty of presenting an answer. In the form of post-war building program No. 3, that will, at one time, adequately meet the requirements of the growing school population and modern concepts of instruction and curriculum, and win the favor of those who must foot the bill.

The right answer is possibly more difficult to find in Victoria than in some other districts of British Columbia.

Victoria has an extraordinarily large proportion of elderly residents, people who have already paid their share of the cost of educating their own children and people who remember with some fondness the days of the three R's and the days when a substantial new school could be built of brick for $50,000.

Fortunately, the ratepayers of Greater Victoria are probably, as a whole, above average in intelligence, and ready to concede that today's youngsters must have today's education and, without obvious "frills," in today's kind of schools.

The school board's task nevertheless is not an easy one, as witnessed by the fact that the trustees have already scratched their heads in private long past the time when they were originally expected to produce a new list of the district's school needs.

The task has been complicated recently, too, by a startling rise in construction costs. Some building authorities think that the increase is seasonal, and reflects only the circumstance that contractors have their hands full this summer, and are not competing keenly for additional work. But that situation may not end with the summer, and the recent increase in the cost of steel is another contributing factor.

The rise in construction costs has made it almost certain that some classrooms that were to have been built this fall will now form part of the new building program. If construction costs are estimated at present levels, they will form a tidy start for the new program. And then, to meet the anticipated growth of the school population, especially at the secondary level, the district will require another 109 classrooms. In the next four years, according to a survey made last fall.

The cost of 109 new classrooms was estimated in the spring as about $1,750,000 but the figure used then was $16,000 per classroom.

A more realistic classroom-cost figure even then would have been $20,000. But lowest tender on a four-room school recently was $114,000, or $28,000 per classroom, and low tender on an eight-room addition, with some renovation, wiring and heating in the existing school, was $318,000.

So using a seemingly conservative figure of $25,000 a classroom, and adding a dozen unbuilt classrooms from this year to the requirements for the next four, it would appear that the school board may need something like $3,025,000 for construction. Add the cost of sites, furniture, equipment, plans and supervision and a modest sum for contingencies, and the result is dizzying.

(The estimates in connection with the 1954 building by-law were $2,649,115 for construction, $203,400 for sites, $197,565 for furniture and equipment, and $299,349 for plans, supervision and contingencies.)

There is more to this unhappy account. There is a question to finish it off:

What about equality of opportunity in education? While children in some neighborhoods are going to bright, attractive new schools, should others be obliged to get along in, for instance that dingy old monstrosity, North Ward?

Or should the new building program include some major replacements, too?

Tell your nearest school trustee.

Whatever nature has in worth denied, She gives in large recruits of needful pride;

For as in bodies, thus in souls, we find What wants in blood and spirits, swelled with wind; Pride, where wit fails, steps in to our defense.

And fills up all the mighty void of sense.

Letters to the Editor

NATO Perverted

Your naive editorial about Iceland and NATO could be overlooked were it not part of misinformation sedulously propagated. Iceland is not the "problem." The problem is NATO.

NATO was conceived as a pact by free nations for mutual defence against unprovoked attack. The U.S. promptly perverted it into a system to ensure immunity of the U.S. from nuclear devastation and to secure air bases for attack. Policy has been directed — without consultation — by the inoffensive Dulles. And that it seeks to serve no interest save those of the U.S. is shown by the callow treatment of the Mediterranean issues. NATO does not oblige the U.S. to aid any nation.

It was the dictatorial arrogance of the U.S. that led to the formation of the neutralist bloc initiated by nations once actually and still nominally members of the Commonwealth, to the disintegration of which our government has contributed. That bloc conceives that permanent peace can be ensured through using a little common sense.

Iceland objects to military occupation that may make it, automatically, the first target for devastation if Mr. Dulles whimsically pushes the world over the brink. I suggest that there is no justification for the allegation in that Mr. Josephson is the tool or spy of the Kremlin. In any event he will have no information as to NATO plans — any more than has Canada. They are the secret of the Pentagon. Does our minister know anything?

General MacKinnon has drawn attention to the fact that the value of our warning lines is dubious and that certainly the central and southern lines can serve only to give time for the SAC (U.S.) to hit for the cyclone cellars. Canada spends annually $2,000,000,000 on defence and is unfit to man and command her warning lines and airfields! The present setup is an insult to our intelligence and national dignity. Our minister should not help in coercing little Iceland.

H. M. HANNESSON.

Disfranchised Voters

Labor with characteristic courage has pointed to the gravity of the method by which Premier Bennett has suddenly, with strange urgency, precipitated a snap provincial election. It is the responsibility of workers and all in danger of being disfranchised to claim their right to vote. Mr. Bennett's action indicates that he fears the "waiting" moment. No action by the Soviets has so blatantly proclaimed their tactics for this is an attempted rape of the democratic rights of the common man.

If British Columbians level their eyes upon facts (not promises), close their ears to exaggeration, open their minds to truth in the political sense, they will know the sort of government they wish to elect. During the last few years lessons have been taught and learned. Let us look twice before voting — and perhaps voting away our province.

KATHLEEN M. WORTHINGTON-LAKE.
851 Maddison street, Victoria, B.C.

Class Legislation

The premier's open bribe to electors in offering a subsidy to only one class of citizen is just a political trick and an extremely poor one at that.

The man fortunate already in owning his house is to have his taxes remitted, while a family man, of whom there are plenty, who is held down by the expense of his children and obliged to rent gets nothing. Mr. Bennett's offer looks generous, but is it? Where will the Social Credit government get the very large sums of money necessary? The B.C. government has no money except what it raises by taxation. That is, all the citizens will bear a levy to endow the house owner. Tenants and landlords will pay and go on paying. What is fair and democratic about that?

If the premier wants to lift some of the tax load from our backs in this the most highly taxed province in Canada, let him raise his exemption on his precious sales tax, to start only on purchases over $1, as is done for meals today. This small concession would immediately benefit every one of us in this great province. Not only that, but it would especially benefit just those in the lower income groups, the aged with their little purchases, the pensioners living hardly on limited incomes, the children buying their little bits of candy and toys.

This exemption would simplify sales tax bookkeeping and speed up our purchases as well as increasing sales. Mr. Bennett's government, true to its type, wrings pennies from the poor and goes out of its way to ease the way of the well-to-do.

Message from the Minister

More Alike Than Different

REV. CANON S. J. WICKENS
Rector, St. Martin-in-the-Fields

Are our churches Christian? This was a provocative question in a recent article in a popular magazine.

The writer appealed for an reference. To that appeal, we say, "Amen," for no one deplores the disunion of Christendom more than thoughtful church members.

Our prayer-book asks God "to give us grace seriously to lay to heart, the great dangers we are in by our unhappy divisions."

The critic asks, "How closely we have adhered to the teaching of the itinerant preacher of Galilee?" and points to the divergences of

REV. CANON S. J. WICKENS
Christian bodies in their acts of worship — the ceremonial and liturgy of one, and the "guitar-strumming" free expression of another.

But divergence of religious expression does not prove failure to adhere to Christian teaching.

Jesus had nothing to say about the conduct of church services, ecclesiastical architecture or the robes of a priest or minister.

had a great deal to say about Christians loving the Lord their God and the neighbors as themselves.

So you have one Christian body building splendid hospitals and another concentrating on social and rescue work.

The measure of adherence to the teaching of Christ is not the ornate worship of the one or the bare drum and cymbals of the other. The important thing about a church is not the form of service or whether the preacher prays from a book, but that Christ and Him crucified is held up before men.

"If Christ were living today, what church would He attend?" The cynic might say, "None of them!" But perhaps the best answer would be "All of them."

far as they follow Him in sincerity and truth."

One man finds his spiritual home in a stately church, another in a tin tabernacle, but both may find the same God revealed by Jesus Christ.

We may never get uniformity of worship this side of Heaven, but we are learning there can be unity in diversity. There is an unseen oneness of the Christian church, not apparent to the human eye, yet seen by God.

Not 'Three Blind Mice'

Detectives Muff Music Question

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — A report that someone was playing "Three Blind Mice" on the chimes sent police racing to Grace Episcopal church Thursday night.

A detective crashed through a window to gain entrance to the locked church. The chimes still played.

The police climbed to the belfry, and still the chimes rang out.

In the belfry, they found a man, a woman, a child and a dog.

It took Frederick Monks a little while to convince the police that he was the church organist. Monks explained that he was teaching his wife to play the chimes.

And, said Monks, the tune was "Holy, Holy, Holy," not "Three Blind Mice."

Archbishop To Head Delegation to Synod

Archbishop Harold E. Sexton and three other delegates from Vancouver Island will attend the annual meetings of the executive council and the departments of the General Synod of the Anglican Church of Canada, at Kingston, Ont., Sept. 6-11.

The archbishop will also attend the House of Bishops held in Brockville, Ont., two days before the meeting of executive council.

Archdeacon A. E. Hendy of Nanaimo and Lt.-Col. Fairfax Vanebo of Victoria, will be delegates at the executive council meeting.

W. G. Hamilton of Victoria will be lay delegate for the diocese of British Columbia at meetings of the Missionary Society, the Board of Religious Education and the Council for Social Service.

Cleric Urges Church Unity

ALBANY—Rev. Glen Stevenson of Albany appealed Thursday for formation of a permanent council of Protestant churches, powerful enough to have a voice in world affairs.

Mr. Stevenson, Anglican clergyman, said that although uniformity would be abortive, Protestant churches should organize a permanent council.

"The council should demand representation among the nations and make its power felt in the council of nations," he said.

THE ROCK OF GIBRALTAR is 1,400 feet high, about half the height of the Jebel Musa headland on the other side of the strait in Africa.

Church To Welcome New Assistant

Induction of Rev. C. Leighton Straight as assistant minister at First United church will take place at 8 p.m. Tuesday in First United church.

Mr. Leighton, whose hobby is model railroading, comes to Victoria from his first charge at Campbell River United church.

Inducting Mr. Straight and presiding at the service will be Rev. C. G. Mackenzie, chairman of presbytery. Rev. Douglas Carr will address the people, and Rev. Douglas R. Pilkey will preach.

A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Straight will follow the service in Fellowship hall. Rev. A. I. Higgins, who has returned from holidays in the east, will welcome his assistant minister.

Born in Winnipeg, Mr. Straight was educated in Toronto public schools. He received a bachelor of arts at Victoria College, University of Toronto, and graduated in theology in 1954 from Emmanuel College, University of Toronto.

Girls Save Child

Speed Prevents River Tragedy

COURTENAY — Two little girls rescued an unconscious child from Tsolum river near here yesterday.

Sharon Mangies and Jessie Baker, both 13, saw Larry Phillips, 2½, tumble down a steep, 10-foot bank into deep water. Sharon dove in immediately and supported the little boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Phillips of RCAF station, Comox. Jessie rushed to help her friend and together they got Larry ashore.

The girls, knowing only very rudimentary artificial respiration, nevertheless were able to pump water out of the child's lungs by pressing on his back and eventually revived him.

MICHAEL GEOHAGAN

Hard rock miner Michael Geohagan, of Campbell River, swam 21 of the 32 miles to Powell River Thursday while Cliff Lumsden was beating Juan de Fuca Strait. The rugged Irishman, seen here at take-off, plans another attempt in Strait of Georgia water where tides run up to 15 knots and have claimed many lives over the years. "I'll do it, one of these days," big Mike promised when he quit the water Thursday. (Colonist photo.)

Firm Obeys Order, Runs Straight Into Arms of Law

NANAIMO—It wasn't that W. H. Squires and Sons Ltd. wanted to break the law on a government construction job. It was a government official who was supervising their loading operations which caused an extra two and one-half tons of gravel to be placed on one of their trucks.

Nurses Mourn Dead Couple

NANAIMO—More than 20 nurses of the Nanaimo Indian Hospital paid a last tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Preece who were buried in the Cedar Valley memorial gardens here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Preece died as a result of a two-car accident near Ladysmith last Friday. Mrs. Preece was a nurse at the Indian hospital for four years.

AUSIE TAXES
Australians paid an average of $254 a person in direct and indirect taxes last year.

"Then," said Mr. Squires, company president, "another government employee (the RCMP) was waiting outside to pinch us."

He told this story to Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in police court yesterday when the company was summoned for overloading a truck.

The magistrate suggested it would be beneficial for the company to overload their trucks if they were getting paid by weight. Mr. Squires agreed that it would, but said that wasn't the case. The company was getting paid by the hour and it benefited them to carry less than the allowable load.

Taking this into consideration, the magistrate imposed a $15 fine.

Socreds Pick Parker To Oppose Strachan

Charles W. Parker, Social Credit member of the B.C. Legislature for Peace River since 1952, will oppose CCF leader Robert Strachan in the Cowichan-Newcastle riding at the Sept. 19 provincial election.

Mr. Parker was elected by acclamation by 94 delegates to a nominating convention in Duncan.

Mr. Parker was elected by acclamation by 94 delegates to a nominating convention in Duncan.

Meanwhile, Duncan lawyer Robert Harvey will seek the Liberal nomination in the riding. Choice will be made at a meeting expected to be held early next week.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who made a surprise appearance during the Socred nomination.

Mr. Bennett invited CCF members to join only if they "want Social Credit and not Socialism."

Many Unregistered

Alberni Penalized By Snap Election

PORT ALBERNI—There are as many unregistered voters per capita in the Alberni district as in any place in the province, Jack Moore, financial secretary of Local 1-85, IWA, claims.

Beer Costs $54

NANAIMO—Two bottles of beer cost Albert James Zilman and Eldon Carl Adams $54 apiece here yesterday.

Each was fined $50 and assessed $4 costs in police court by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts after pleading guilty to possession of liquor in a restaurant.

The youths said the beer was left by some people who occupied the table before they came.

He criticized the action of Premier Bennett in calling the election for a date which leaves so short a period for registration.

Mr. Moore declared that the premier had consistently denied rumors of an election this year. "If he had not, I am sure that community-minded citizens and organizations would have made an attempt to register voters in this area."

The distance from the Alberni government office to outlying districts of the West Coast of the island was seen by Mr. Moore as an almost insurmountable obstacle in the way of complete registration for the riding.

The gecko, a small lizard, has minute hooks in its feet which enable it to climb even a pane of glass.

Damage to 'Copter Stalls Salvage Bid

PORT ALBERNI—A salvage attempt failed before it started Friday when weather conditions and mechanical trouble prevented the takeoff of a twin-engine RCAF helicopter scheduled to lift a small plane from a wooded hill where it crashed more than a month ago.

The operation was planned to bring out the B.C. Aero Club's Canuck aircraft damaged July 14 when student pilot Robert Oberg crashed near Franklin river camp during heavy fog.

DAMAGE FOUND
A low ceiling delayed the helicopter's scheduled takeoff from Alberni airstrip. Then during pre-flight inspection it was found that a bolt in the main transmission had been sheered off.

RCAF Air-Sea Search Locates Lost Fisherman

COMOX—RCAF air-sea rescue officials here Friday reported a small boat, missing off the east coast of Vancouver Island, had been found.

An air search started yesterday for fisherman Jack Ives who had been missing for a week in his outboard motor boat near Qualicum Beach.

An RCAF Casco seaplane flew from the Sea Island base to take part in the search, but air-sea rescue officials reported later that Ives had been located by a surface vessel and towed to Qualicum Beach.

Coch Frank Hindle of the Navy has also expressed mild

October Date Set For Completion Of Phone Projects

NANAIMO—Two separate B.C. Telephone Company projects, costing more than $165,000, are well advanced here.

Both projects, according to L. A. Hurst, district commercial manager, will provide additional service throughout Nanaimo exchange.

Heavy construction crews are reinforcing and extending portions of the existing underground cable system in the business area.

The underground job links up with a $35,000 project of placing approximately six and a half miles of aerial cable to Lantzville and Cedar districts.

A second project costing more than $70,000 is being carried out in the waterfront exchange area. Mr. Hurst said the job will be completed in October.

PORT ALBERNI—Axl Forsberg, city sportsman, is leading in this week's Tyee Club competition with a 56-pound salmon caught in the harbor here.

Mr. Forsberg's catch is the largest since the season opened nearly three weeks ago.

Bill Clayton, manager of Port Boat House where the weighing station is located, reported a run of smaller salmon Thursday and Friday, with fish weighing from 20 to 35 pounds.

NANAIMO M. G. Zorkin, president of the Nanaimo Real Estate Board, announced Thursday that a Vancouver Island real estate multiple listing bureau would be set up.

Capital of $3,000 is needed with 15 members as a minimum. Areas covered will be the whole of Vancouver Island, north of the Malahat.

The advantages of multiple listing are said to have proved themselves in Vancouver and Victoria and is regarded as the most efficient way of handling real estate.

PARKVILLE—The annual picnic of Mt. Arrowsmith Branch No. 42, Canadian Legion, will be held Sunday at Big Qualicum River.

Legion members and friends will meet at the Legion hall, Parkville, at 10 a.m. so that transportation can be arranged.

Tea, coffee, soft drinks and ice cream will be provided.

$735 Bait for Anglers

COURTENAY—Anglers from many parts of Vancouver Island will be out in force Sunday to compete for $735 in prizes offered by the Rotary Club's annual salmon derby.

The contest is set for two Sundays, beginning Aug. 19. First prize for the biggest fish caught in the two days is a $200 boat. Two prizes of $200 outboard engines are offered for the biggest fish caught in Comox Bay and the biggest caught in the rest of the fishing area.

The largest coho will win $35 in fishing tackle.

There are four weigh-in stations, Comox, Kye Bay, Bates Beach and Little River. Only rod fishermen may enter the derby.

QUALICUM BEACH—A price of $8,500 set a new record high for the Rotary Club annual auction and rummage sale. Proceeds will be used to finance work on the recently opened Rotary Club airstrip. Auctioneer was K. D. Thwaites.

NANAIMO Douglas Peet MacMillan & Boudier's restoration supervisor here, received a $250 cheque from the company Thursday for developing a power planting tool.

System of Dams, Locks

Esquimalt-Portage Inlet Canal Link Commended

By R. O. MARRION

Colonist City Hall Reporter

A Vancouver firm of consulting engineers has commended the idea of cutting a canal from Esquimalt harbor to Portage inlet and controlling the flow of water by dams and locks.

The report of the firm R. Gordon Knight and associates was received yesterday by Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of the Gorge Waterway Improvement Association. Ald. Edgewood said the next step will be to try to secure a full field survey to determine the design and cost of proposed improvements.

"The probable cost would amount to slightly over $1,000,000," the consulting firm said. "It would require about 2 1/2 or three months of field work to confirm the most suitable design and complete a firm estimate."

Ald. Edgewood said the cost of such a survey might amount to $10,000.

Esquimalt council this week urged that Capital Improvement District Commission funds be set aside for such a survey, after receiving a Victoria council request for endorsement of Gorge waterway improvement as a "D" project.

OLD REPORT QUOTED

The report reviews the history of the Gorge and reveals that in 1850 the water rights branch of the lands department undertook a study on cutting down pollution and recommending cutting a canal and installing locks and dams on Victoria arm and at the Esquimalt harbor end of the dam.

Cost of the work then was estimated at $545,000, including the canal, locks and dams, removal of weeds, local dredging, survey, engineering fees and contingencies.

The report notes that subsequently sewage was diverted and swimming became safe in practically the whole of the waterway for the first time since 1938.

But it adds:

"The lack of circulation in the muddy nature of the bed of the Gorge and its central locality indicate that to complete the task, the canal should be cut through to link Esquimalt and Victoria harbors. It is recommended that better recreational facilities for residents of the Greater Victoria district."

TWO DAMS, LOCKS

An accompanying plan shows a canal from Esquimalt harbor to Portage inlet with a dam and lock at the Portage inlet and a dam and lock on Victoria arm approximately at the foot of Harriet street (where Ald. Robert Macmillan has suggested that a bridge should be built instead of at Point Ellice).

The report suggests:

1. That local dredging would be necessary in some areas, which could be undertaken after conditions had been allowed to stabilize with a good circulation of water through the system.

2. That the present muddy state of the Gorge is not conducive to good swimming conditions, and that the stagnant nature of the water is a potential danger.

3. That mud flats and congestion in Victoria arm hinder boating, but that with the construction of canal and locks, the waterway would provide ideal boating facilities for small craft and in winter would be a perfect mooring area.

4. That in planning due account should be taken to allocate suitable areas for campsites, youth clubs, picnic areas and so forth.

5. That the reversible falls channel under the Gorge bridge would have to be widened and deepened so that small craft could negotiate it more easily.

PREVENT POLLUTION

6. That construction of the Victoria arm lock would prevent harbor pollution from floating its way into the Gorge.

7. That the flushing effect of a canal and locks would overcome an increase in the Gorge bacteria count resulting from increased boating and swimming.

"From the opinions expressed in reports on improvement of the Gorge and a field check on these conclusions, it is the opinion of this firm," the report says, "that it would be the most reasonable and technically sound manner of answering the problem of improvement of the Gorge waterway to undertake the cutting through of the canal controlling the water by the two dams and locks and the construction of the various auxiliary works necessary to bring the full scheme into operation."

High Socred Official Rejected as Candidate

JOHN TISDALE

H. J. BRUCH

One nominee left the hall and another was attacked from the floor at one of three Greater Victoria meetings held last night to name candidates for the Sept. 19 provincial election.

Renominated were John Tisdale, Saanich Social Credit, and H. J. Bruch, Esquimalt Social Credit, both M.L.A.s since 1953. Picked by the C.F. in Saanich was Frank Snowsell, a former M.L.A. defeated by Mr. Tisdale three years ago.

Mr. Tisdale won renomination from some 200 delegates at Lake Hill last night. C. W. Stewart, secretary, secretary of the B.C. Social Credit League and James Roberts, unsuccessful federal social credit candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich in 1953.

Confusion broke out during Mr. Stanbury's speech when he said: "You may wonder why I am asking for your support."

"I have been for 25 years in the biggest banking house in Canada," he said. "They pay me $45,000 a year to carry it."

"A lot of you people probably haven't got that kind of dough. You may wonder why I am here. I am here in that life because I know the score. I know the score."

At this point, a delegate broke in to say: "Mr. chairman, I suggest that you start balloting."

Mr. Stanbury sat down, and in a few moments he left the hall.

Then, Mrs. Cora Pederson, 4162 Wilkinson road, rose to ask the chairman to ask Mr. Tisdale if he would vote for Social Credit (C.F. hall) after B. H. Jones and J. W. Windsor with him in his favor.

Mr. Bruch won by acclamation at a meeting in Colwood.

FRANK SNOWSELL

because I was a poll clerk."

Mrs. Pederson accused the M.L.A. of invading into my personal voting affairs to the effect I was not allowed to vote."

Argumenta spluttered through the hall and Mrs. Pederson finally was shouted down with calls of "Order, order, put her out! Get the heck! I don't see why we should allow this rabble in here."

The Saanich M.L.A. won a majority on the first ballot.

Mr. Snowsell won by acclamation in a meeting at Douglas Street (C.F. hall) after B. H. Jones and J. W. Windsor with him in his favor.

Mr. Bruch won by acclamation at a meeting in Colwood.

Food Excellent, Plentiful

People at the Aged Women's Home were quick to contradict reports of poor food on their menus. "No choice of breakfast foods?" queried Miss Adela Mortimer, 81. "Nonsense! We have a choice of seven. I've been here 10 years and I have never had cause for complaint. There's plenty of everything and everything's good." Mrs. A. Cox, serving, has worked at the home off and on for 16 years. "The food is excellent" is her judgment.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman)

'We Have No Kick'

"I don't think the premier was right in having nothing to say about an election in the offing. Obviously he was planning it," said Fred Tanner.

But there were others who seemed quite satisfied. "It's all right as long as we can get on the register. We have no kick," said Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hamilton.

"It's just one of those things that happen. Anyway, we are fortunate to be given an opportunity to register," commented William Knowles, who has recently moved to Victoria from the Similkameen.

One man who wouldn't give his name said "If the other parties were as interested about getting out the vote they would have told their people to register."

The other parties could have been as smart as he (Bennett) was."

"I don't like it," said Mrs. Henrietta Bellard.

"Certainly more time could have been given for it," said F. J. Staghaid.

"Too sudden and too much bluff and bluster about the whole thing. He could have said it long ago," said C. E. Herold. His feelings were echoed by J. A. Bryon.

George Edgington, who registered with his wife, thought there should have been more time and another civil servant, who did not wish to give his name didn't think the snap election justified.

"I'm against a snap election," said Frank Rasmussen.

Automotive Union Sets Strike Vote

Victoria automotive workers' union has received permission to organize a strike vote among some 250 members employed by 10 Victoria automotive dealers.

Membership voted this week to reject the unanimous recommendations of a consultation board following recent hearings.

The board suggested a two-year contract at a wage scale of $1.96 per hour for journeyman mechanics the first year, and $2 per hour starting May 1, 1957.

WANT $3.10 PLUS

The union Automotive Maintenance Workers' Federal Union, Local No. 151 (I.C.U.), has demanded $3.10 an hour and a one-year contract. Present rate is $1.78 an hour.

The board recommended a 40-hour week, reduced from the present 44-hour week, no requested by the union.

A union spokesman said data for a strike vote will be announced by consultation officer W. T. McLaughlin, probably next week.

Shoppers Enticed By Glamour

NEW YORK (AP) — Glamour in the supermarket is the latest gimmick in this highly competitive business. Its aim is to take the chill of the present-day miracle of efficiency and pushbutton self-service that groceries have become. First designers glamorized the market to lure the woman shopper away from another giant down the street. Then they try to soothe her so that she will slow down the stacks of cans and packaged vegetables. The theory is that when relaxed she becomes a prey to impulse buying. Trick mobile stairwells, brown stains, even wind-dunes in a pond are some of the new gambits. With picture windows overlooking the meat cutting and packaging room as one supermarket designer puts it quaintly, "we're trying to recapture the feeling of the old-fashioned butchery shop."

Cavin-LeBlanc

O'Reilly conducted the service in a setting of white gaudy organ music was played by Mrs. M. Ahrens. During signing of the register, Mrs. A. Murphy sang Ave Maria. A gown of white lace over satin fashioned with shapely bodice of late fitted to the neckline, from which swept a most beautiful skirt in tiers of lace and satin folds was worn by the bride. Her fitted lace bolero with points trailing the train of air was worn over the bodice and a shape well-matched from her crown of seed pearls, she carried a white pepper bush.

"From the fact that I've written you about this hand, says Mr. H. J. K. of Chatham, N.Y. 'You might assume that I am East. However, I must admit to holding North's cards. The result was four spades made, doubled and redoubled. My partner and I can make seven hearts, or even seven clubs with East on lead. I feel that East put one over on this hand.'"

Either Mr. K. is a mild-mannered bridge player or a most restrained writer. He is also a most generous opponent, for his praise of East is earned only by the resulting score. But unless East is a bridge player or they have a dual rise that redoubled contracts cannot be rescinded. East took a 10 to 1 chance of winding up the goat of this deal instead of the hero. His redouble gained 240 points. It might have cost something like 2,000 counting the value of the respective games if North-South had escaped to seven hearts!

We doubt if many players would have had the sublime faith in partner to stand for four spades doubled, much less redoubled, as North did. Even if his bid meant what it should have meant, would have bailed out to five hearts, apologizing jumps to four, all South has not more than four spades. This is to pass if he has opened a four-spade bid, against an opening four-spade bid, applies equally in this case. It is a takeout double, not to be confused with Blackwood. It asks partner to show his best suit.

WINNING POINTS
Smith should have bid four.

Satchmo To Play London Symphony Date

LONDON — Louis Armstrong has accepted an invitation to play with a symphony orchestra in the Royal Festival Hall in December. Later the famed jazz trumpeter will appear in a British movie about backstage life in Britain.

COVENTRY — Daniel Lee Barron, of Orange, Texas, flew from this Midland city yesterday to comfort the 13-year-old youth who accidentally shot his five-year-old son, Derek, dead earlier this week. Barron told the father of the boy, "I don't want you to take it on yourself. Carelessness is bad but it can not be helped."

VANCOUVER — Vancouver-born Gen. Sir Charles F. Lowen, new adjutant-general of the British Army, is in British Columbia "to do some fishing" before taking over his new position. He came to the coast from Singapore, where he was commander-in-chief of Britain's Far East ground forces.

TOKYO — Shiro Yamada, former Japanese army captain who recently returned from 10 years' captivity in Siberia said Japanese prisoners in one camp cut off their arms and blew off their legs with dynamite to escape forced labor in a Soviet gold mine.

QUITO, Ecuador — Camilo Fajardo Rodriguez was proclaimed president of Ecuador Friday — the first Conservative to win in 60 years.

LONDON — Timothy Whildon, 29-year-old Chelsea artist whose great-grandfather was a governor-general of Canada, is the first English painter to win a newly-established Elizabeth T.

Greenshield Memorial Fund art scholarship from Canada.

HOLLYWOOD — Kathleen Howard, 72, former opera singer who later became a successful motion picture actress and fashion editor, died Wednesday in a Hollywood sanitarium. Born in Canada, she began her varied career in Germany at the age of 20.

like to see abolition of all closing regulations. Thirty-eight had abstained from voting.

The six-day Shopping Week Committee spokesman questioned the validity of these figures as an indication of whether or not the stores should be allowed to stay open a full six days.

"Are you going to count the preference of a one-man butcher shop as equal to the preference of a store like the Hudson's Bay, with its hundreds of employees and large assortment?" he asked.

The B.C. division of the CRMA said in the brief that it had conducted a thorough survey of retail stores on a block-by-block basis.

It said that 379 stores had signed a formal petition asking for retention of the present closing by-laws, without changes; 105 had indicated their disapproval of the present laws by giving one or more suggestions on how they could be improved; 85 were in favor of a six-day shopping week; 11 would like to continue with one-night shopping being allowed; five would prefer two-night shopping and 25 would
